WILL PUT OUT FULL TICKET

Progressive Voters of Crittenden County Held Enthusiastic Meeting Last Saturday

The Progressive voters of Crittenden county met in convention at the court house here as per previous announcement Saturday afternoon and by a unanimous vote decided to put out a full Moose ticket for county offices for the fall election. County Chairman Virgil Y. Moore called the meeting to order and several speeches were made. A goodly number was in attendance and much enthusiasm was displayed.

EXPECTS A CONVICTION

Commonwealth's Attorney Confident in Tobacco Case.

Henderson, Ky., Feb. 25—"Not only have we indicted the Imperial, but we will convict them," said Sam V. Dixon, commonwealth's attorney, Tuesday morning.

"It is a dead open and shut case against the Imperial. Our evidence is simply overwhelming.

"The case will come up for trial in May, and you can look for conviction of the Imperial Tobacco company on the indictment at this time."

The penalty is a fine from $500 to $5,000, together with imprisonment, and automatically forfeits the charter and puts the Imperial out of business. The same charge of combining in restraint of trade in setting a price on the twenty five million pounds of tobacco held by the big pool will, it is said, be brought against Jno. H. Hodge, representative of the Regles, or the Italian government.

Williams—Young.

Married Tuesday, Feb. 25th at the home of R. A. LaRue on West Depot street, Mr. Jesse Williams and Miss Della Young.

The groom is the youngest son of Hiram Williams of the View section, and a young man of sterling quality. The last two years has made his home near Crossville, Ill.

The bride is a popular young lady of the Levias section. After the ceremony the happy pair returned to the home of her sister, Mrs. May Burklow, where a sumptuous feast awaited them and friends and neighbors joined in bidding them God-speed.

They leave for Crossville, Ill., Saturday, their future home.

Hurley—LaRue.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Mr. Kelroy LaRue and Miss Clara Hurley Wednesday afternoon at the home of W. M. Hurley of the Crittenden Springs section. These are popular young people of the county and their many friends join in wishing them joy and happiness.

A CLOCK WITH A HISTORY

A Relic of Revolutionary Times is Now The Valued Souvenir of a Marion Citizen.

The oldest clock in Crittenden county, perhaps—a time-piece, that has ticked out minute after minute, hour after hour and measured the allotted days of generation after generation,—is now the property of Deputy Sheriff John T. Pickens, of this city.

The clock was originally owned by William G. Pickens, who was a soldier of the Revolutionary War, serving under the command of General George Washington. Mr. Pickens was a native of South Carolina, but after the close of the war of the Revolution he came to Kentucky, married a Miss Caldwell, settled in Crittenden county on what is now known as the William Lewis farm, on Claylick creek, reared his family and died at an old age in 1844.

He had five children, John A. Pickens, who was the grandfather of John T., A. J., Joel A. C., J. A. Pickens, Mesdames A. A. and Eliza Deboe. All of this county; Ebenezer who never married; William W., Isreal H., who was the father of Richard E. Pickens, of this city; Nelly, who married James Calhoun, a relative of John C. Calhoun, the South Carolina statesman, and afterwards lived in Paducah; Handy, the youngest child, who married Miss Annie Stewart and emigrated to Arkansas.

In 1838 the clock, which belonged to William G. Pickens, great-grandfather of John T., was sold at a public sale and purchased by Dr. Mickleberry Brister, who lived near Weston, and who kept it until he died, when it became the property of his son, Ira Brister, who, at his death, requested that the clock be given to John T. Pickens. It was transferred from the Brister residence to the home of the deputy sheriff, where it may be both seen and heard at all hours, day or night. It is quite a large piece of furniture, as clocks go, standing about six feet in height. Its casing, its face and its hands are all of wood, as are likewise its wheels. It stands there grim and tall and complacent, as though it of course was ready and competent to go on ticking and pointing out the time of day to present and future generations of Pickenses, as they live, move, have their being and pass away.

Birthday Party.

Ina Bigham celebrated her 9th birthday by giving a party Thursday Feb. 20, at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bigham on north main st.

Those who enjoyed that memorable afternoon were: Miss Laura Butler, Grace Cardin, Master Thomas Cochran, Miss Virginia Doss, Verda Eskew, Gladys Enoch, Rudell Franklin, Emma Lee, Jennie Marie Hardin, Ruth Larue, Naomi Lawson, Edna Little, Virginia Miller, Evelyn Moore, Mary E. McAdams, Reba Parish, Martha Reed, Mabel Sutherland, Marie Taylor, Inez Vosier and Edwina Weldon. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and candy were served.

All enjoyed themselves very much and wished the little hostess many more happy birthdays.

WELL KNOWN PLANTER DEAD

Charles Walker Passes to His Reward After Illness of Four Days.

Last Friday evening at 6 o'clock, Charlie Walker died at the R. E. Flanary river farm, where he had lived the past year. He was taken with a chill on Tuesday, which developed pneumonia, quickly taking him away on the fourth day. He was 52 years old Dec. 28th last and it will be remembered he buried his wife last Christmas day. He is survived by 6 children, Alvin and Mrs. Fannie Westmoreland by his first wife, who was Miss Margaret Daughtrey and four sons, Allie, Clarence, Thomas and Edward by his last wife, who was a Griffith and who died last Christmas eve day.

The interment was at the Love graveyard Saturday, Rev. G. Y. Wilson officiating. The deceased was a member of the Chapel Hill Presbyterian church. He was a son of Lewis H. Walker and began as a poor boy and amassed a fortune of ten or fifteen thousand dollars.

Husband Kills Planter to Save Honor of His Family.

Smithland, Ky., Feb. 21.—Barney Trimble, 43, Livingston county planter, was killed this afternoon by Claude McCandless, who declared he shot and killed Trimble to save the honor of his family.

Trimble was sued last fall by William G. Pickens, great-grandfather of John T., for $50,000 damages for an alleged criminal assault on Mrs. McCandless.

McCandless is under guard at a hotel tonight. Both families are wealthy.

To the Democratic Voters of Crittenden County.

Having been solicited from various parts of the county to offer my name in the general primary to be held next August, for the office of Assessor, I have finally decided to ask the Democrats to endorse me for that position. In so doing I invite investigation into my standing both as a citizen and a democrat.

I would appreciate both the honor and the emoluments of the office, and therefore, I shall earnestly seek the nomination and if nominated, will as earnestly strive to carry your banner to victory.

I promise if elected, to discharge the duties of the office without fear or favor, and strictly in compliance with the law, assuring you that I would appreciate both your vote and influence for this most important office I beg to remain,

Respectfully yours,

PERSY BRASHER.

BIG DELIVERY AT HENDERSON

Stemming District Growers in Henderson With 200 Wagon Loads of Tobacco.

Henderson, Ky., Feb. 24.—As the result of the sale a few days ago of 8,500,000 pounds of the Stemming District Association tobacco the town is full of tobacco this morning, which is being delivered to the various factories. Something like 200 loads were brought in Sunday and Sunday night and lined up in front of the factory doors ready for delivery when they opened for business this morning.

Tobacco Being Received At Unioontown—Growers Pleased

Unioontown, Ky., Feb. 24.—A nice proportion of the Dark Stemming district tobacco will be received here. Deliveries have already begun. Wagons came in as early as Saturday afternoon to be in readiness for the opening today. The smiling faces of the growers are much in evidence. The factory that receives here has a large force of men at work and the volume of business is large.

Notice to Lyceum Patrons.

Taggart, the Entertainer, who was announced for Saturday night, March 1, can not meet his engagement. We shall not lose this number, but a postponement of the date was necessary.

Death of Mrs. Murphy.

Mrs. Susan Fletcher Murphy died at the home of Joseph Mahew in this city, Feb. 18th, 1913, of apoplexy. She was in her 85th year having been born in May 1828. She was a daughter of Isaac Long of Todd county, but had lived here many years. She is survived by four sons, Anthony of this county, Charles of Missouri, George of Texas, and Hodge of Illinois.

Male Quartet The Music Makers Auditorium Thursday, March 6th

Marion's Musical Genius.

Marion with all of its other attainments and people to be proud of, now has a musical composer, who is destined to win fame for herself and our little city who now claims her as its own by adoption.

We have received and heard with great pleasure the song "If Only" the music of which was composed by Mrs. Alice Maude Shelby Wilson, of this city. The music has been declared first-class by critics and was published by a well known Washington, D. C., publishing firm who complimented the young composer on her first product.

She received much encouragement from Von Tobel and other local musical experts. Mrs. Wilson has another musical composition ready for the publishers and we hear its to be dedicated to one of her best friends, a Marion girl.

Don't fail to hear "The Danish Violinist" Tuesday, March 4, and "The Music Makers" male quartette, Thursday, March 6. Regular Lyceum course at Auditorium.

UNCERTAIN IS DATE OF OPENING

Of The Marion Factory of The Stemming District Tobacco Association.

The Henderson Gleaner Says:

DELIVERIES

Here on Feb. 24th, 1913, at 8:30 A. M., the city of Henderson is full of tobacco, the first deliveries of Association Tobacco, 1912 crop. I think it entirely conservative to say from four to five hundred wagons will be in this town to-day.

Members are getting 33 1/3 percent of the amount of deliveries. Or take it this way - if a member delivers today, or in the future on the present contract, one hundred dollars worth of tobacco, a warehouse receipt will be issued him for that amount, on which will be credited $33.33, the cash paid the member.

And when you come to think about it, that is not so bad. Farmers are getting today nearly as much in cash as was paid them by the Trusts in the days before the Association, and the farmer has two-thirds of his tobacco left as evidenced by his warehouse receipt.

I am perfectly aware that I will be charged with stating the case too strongly. O, I don't know—when it is recalled what Trusts docks and weights were before farmers' interests were guarded by an Association graduate.

Speaking of warehouse receipts a good member said only this morning, — "I have never failed yet in getting money on my warehouse receipts. In several instances I have gone to my bank and requested loans and tendered the bank a good, solvent endorser on my note, who (my endorser I mean) held my warehouse receipts to secure himself against any possible loss. Need less to say, none of my endorsers in the past six years have ever lost a cent or been in danger of losing a cent, for in the final out come, my warehouse receipts have been paid in full with satisfactory dividends."

I have just this morning heard direct from Owensboro, where an immense amount of tobacco is being sold on the loose leaf floor, and I have been reliably informed that the average for several weeks past on the loose leaf floor has been not to exceed 5 1/2 cents.

Summing up conditions to this Feb. 24th, 1913, it is perfectly obvious that farmers in all of the eleven counties growing the

MRS. MAGGIE LADD FATALLY BURNED

Wife of John Ladd of Near Salem Dies of Injuries Received Sunday Morning.

Mrs. Maggie Ladd was fatally burned Sunday morning at her home one mile east of Salem at 7:30 o'clock, a. m., and died at 3:30 p. m. Mrs. Ladd was the wife of John Ladd. Mrs. Ladd's clothing caught fire from an open grate, no one being present except her little son, who in the excitement could do nothing. Mrs. Ladd ran about 50 yards from the house and fell in the public road. Charley Gray was the first and only one to reach her. Drs. Hayden & Matlock attended her.

Mrs. Ladd was one of our neighbors, and a better woman never lived. She was one of the best neighbors we ever saw, especially in sickness. The weather never was too bad for her to go where she was called. She has doubtless gone to her reward. Mrs. Ladd leaves a husband and five children to mourn their loss.

Her remains were laid to rest at Union Monday evening. The family have the sympathy of all their friends and neighbors in their trouble.

W. H. Wallace Ask an Indorsement
I desire my friends and the voters generally, to know that I am a candidate for nomination for the office of Jailer, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, Aug. 2.

I have endeavored faithfully to perform all the duties of the office since I have been Jailer and I have tried to treat all with whom I have come in contact as I would like to be treated.

My record during the present term, is before the citizens of Crittenden County and if it meets with the approval of the voters, I respectfully ask for an endorsement. If nominated I promise to make an active honorable canvass for re-election and if elected I promise to serve the people faithfully to the best of my ability and to treat each and every one with proper respect and courtesy.

YEAR BOOK of Stark Bro's Nurseries & Orchards Co. MAILED TO YOU FREE

Just say on a Postal Card: "Send me a copy of Stark Year Book for 1913." When writing, also tell us how many trees, shrubs, vines, etc., you will probably plant this season.

This Year Book is more than a mere catalogue of Stark nursery products, it is a practical easy to understand text book for the guidance of the man who plants trees. Our own experience of nearly 100 years, the reports of experiment stations and the opinions of planters from all sections are condensed and reproduced for the benefit of busy people. An encyclopedia of orchard information, containing full size color illustrations of gloriously tinted fruits and many photographic reproductions in black and white; also information on many subjects in which the orchardist is interested.

Hundreds of varieties of apples, pears, peach, plum, cherry, apricot, quince, grape and all small fruits are described; weaknesses of each variety are pointed out and good points are explained. We feel that planters should know both.

Those interested in growing fruits or flowers or shrubs or shade trees will find this book of inestimable value; totally different from the average nurseryman's publications. It is a book you will keep for reference, and one on which you can depend as being absolutely accurate. Write today for your copy.

The Spirit of Bob Taylor

ON July the thirty-first, eighteen hundred and fifty, Heaven loaned to earth the spirit of Bob Taylor, and charged him with a joyous mission--to interpret to men the mystic messages of Nature.

"He heard and understood the tongueless tattle of brooks and rivers, the thunder-spoken language of the storm. He caught the sylvan stories of the forest that whispers with the borrowed breath of vagrant winds. He learned the jagged dialects of thorns and thistles, the sweet vernacular of flowers that woo the air with the wordless speech of fragrance."

"He led us to the trysting place of silent blooming things, where timid violets rest in the arms of coves that croon with songs of birds, and the wild honeysuckle, pink-gowned Princess of the woods, blows breath of honey in the faces of the enamored hills."

"With the magic of his words, he opened our ears to melodies that sing in all the sounds that din the world. From the single blast of the hunter's horn he evolved the merry music of the chase; he saddened a landscape with the mournful notes of a dove, and wrapped the vague beauty of the evening twilight hour in the mellow harmonies of distant bells."

"With eyes that conned the mute mysteries of trooping worlds he read the far away signals that twinkle from the fields of space and the sun-kindled fires that burn on the cloud-hills of dawn."

"He played on keys that sound beyond the ken of flesh and blood and thrill the senses of the soul."

DELONG RICE.

The influences of that great and kindly spirit linger with us like the incense of fallen roses, and its sweetest messengers are in the BEAUTIFUL BOOKS which contain his complete writings and the history of his life. They speak to us in the same words that flowed from his eloquent lips to soothe the multitudes; they hold up the mirror to the past and reflect the fascinating story of his romantic life.

Within these two beautiful volumes are the best efforts of his genius and the true story of his life and career.

Girl Who Longed For Adventure Is Heroine in Fire.

An early morning fire in a three story building in Austin, a suburb of Chicago, gave Eunice Olsen, a pretty dark haired miss of seventeen, an opportunity to prove herself a real heroine. Always Miss Olsen has craved excitement. She liked to read about her Viking ancestors and their stirring adventures, and her life in a moneru city has seemed drab and uneventful. But now her heart is filled with content, for, literally, she has been tested by fire, and found equal to the occasion. When awakened by fire in her home, Miss Olsen aroused the other tenants in the building, got her parents and sister safely to the street, and then ran bare-footed through the snow to a neighbor's house, where she telephoned to the fire department. Returning to the burning building, she attempted to dash through the smoke and flames to rescue a pet canary, but was restrained by her parents.—Exchange.

The Bob Taylor Books

IT is a source of great interest, congratulation and New Year's greeting to the people of the Southland and of the whole nation, that the masterpieces of oratory, word-painting and humor of the late Senator Robert Love Taylor, have been preserved. Happier still is the fact that they are being given to the world in a way that will honor the South and the name and fame of Bob Taylor.

In connection with his lectures and other famous productions, the Bob Taylor Publishing Company, No. 5, Noel Block, Nashville, Tennessee, is issuing a complete history of his life and career, written by his three surviving brothers.

The titles of these two books are: "LECTURES AND BEST LITERARY PRODUCTIONS OF BOB TAYLOR" and "LIFE AND CAREER OF SENATOR ROBERT LOVE TAYLOR (OUR BOB)."

The first named is the only complete compilation of the Senator's writings ever issued and cannot fail to command instant and widespread popularity. It contains his nine famous lectures delivered throughout the country, which made him premier of the American platform for twenty years, and moved a continent to laughter and tears. This book contains also the unfinished lecture "Uncle Sam," which the Senator was building with special care at the time his last illness overtook him. It is a jewel of lofty thought in brilliant form.

In addition to the ten lectures, this volume presents numerous address, famous sayings and stories of "Our Bob" which the world will welcome.

The "LIFE AND CAREER" is a volume of about 400 pages of as clean, beautiful and thrilling literature as ever engaged a reader. It is the brain and heart work of the late Senator's three brothers, and gives a faithful and brilliant portrayal of the life walk of Bob Taylor through all of its windings and eventful years—his struggles, his triumphs and the leading incidents of humorous and heroic kind.

These books reflect the great soul and romantic career of Bob Taylor, and they are creations of art from the publisher's standpoint. They are interspersed with attractive, historic and appropriate illustrations.

A million homes are waiting to welcome them.

Imported Zebras.

Princeton, Ind., Feb. 25—Dr. W. E. Hasting, the Posey county stockman who last year imported two fine zebras from Germany for a cross-breeding experiment that is expected to cover a number of years, says the zebras, though originally from tropic lands, are standing the winter well on his farm near New Harmony. They are getting fat and becoming thoroughly tame. The male is almost a pet and is daily curried without offering to kick.

The zebras have been separated and the male placed with a young filly. Dr. Hastings is engaged in an experiment by which he hopes to see a new and very hardy race of domestic animals produced.

Stories of the Town

Things Serious and Frivolous Talked About on the Streets of the County Hub.

CHASED BY THE SHERIFF

(Reported by R. C. Haynes.)

"The enthusiastic outburst of patriotism as displayed by Hi-field Jones," continued Zebulon, "soon subsided and the men began to cast about preparatory to starting on their return trip to the county seat.

"I don't know how the rest of you gentlemen feel," said Bobby Broadway, "but I'm as dry as the Sahara desert, chief from her pocket, she gently brushed away the tear from my face; then, seeing that Brother Marlow's back was turned toward us, her pretty cheeks rosy with blushes and tiptoeing so she could reach high enough, she pressed her soft, warm lips to the place where the tear had been.

"Gentlemen, years and years have passed since that evening we stood there on the banks of the river, with its silvery waters shimmering in the moonlight, with the autumn leaves falling around us and the stars twinkling over our heads—years have passed, I say, since then, and we have had our share of the ups and downs of life—sometimes battling hard to keep the hungry wolf from our door—and now she is old, and I am old, and our grandchildren are growing up, yet I can feel that kiss on my cheek to-day. It burns with an intensity that time cannot efface.

"Nell was a country girl, only seven, well educated for a girl of her age in those days—the public schools being then only in their infancy—possessed the admirable virtue of modesty and was inclined to be timid, even bashful; when, therefore, in her sympathetic impulsiveness, she gave me that snick on the left side of my face, she naturally thought that she was unobserved by the only possible spectator on the landing. When she turned around, however, she saw, to her utter confusion, that Brother Marlow had been a wide-eyed spectator to the whole performance!

"Brother Marlow," she said—no doubt because in her embarrassment, poor thing, she didn't know what else to say—"do you believe in final perseverance?"

"The minister was rather taken aback by being thus called upon to give to an audience of two his views on so profound a theological subject.

"Yes, Nelly, I certainly do," he answered, indulgently, "we men folks have to believe in all kinds of perseverance, else we never would get married, would we Zebulon?"

"Now, Brother Marlow," said Nell, regaining her composure, "I see you are afraid to discuss Bible questions with me. Do you know, I'm inclined to believe in falling from grace. Brother Yates says—"

"And I'm inclined to think, Nell," I interrupted, "that Brother Yates doesn't know Scripture when he sees it; however, we can discuss that question on our way home. I'm as tired as an off ox, as hungry as a lost sheep and as sleepy as the seven sisters in the Arabian Nights. I move, therefore, and the I's have it, that we adjourn."

"Yes, Zeb, we must just fly! fly!" agreed Nell. "Didn't I tell you that I was dying to see Pop and Benny?"

"We started at once for Squire Brownlow's, but did not go flying, in any sense of the word, going afoot up the rocky roadway, journeying along single file, I in the lead, Nell at my heels and Brother Marlow in the rear, leading old Slick Selim.

"We had suggested to Nell that she ride the horse, while the minister and I take it afoot; but she refused to do so, intimating that she didn't like that style of saddle. Nell, you must remember, gentlemen, had not learned the art of the more hygienic horseback riding as practiced by our up-to-date, twentieth-century granddaughters.

"So we trudged on up the steep hill towards Fords Ferry, my knees working like rusty hinges and knowing, from certain half-expressed sighs that now and then came up from behind me, that Nell's and Brother Marlow's were not working much better.

"Brother Marlow," I said, "I've thought out a scheme that will beat this two to one. You mount old Slick Selim."

"The minister did as suggested. I then placed Nell on the horse behind him, as far to the rear as space would permit. Then leading Slick Selim up to a stump, I bounced on his back, between Nell and Brother Marlow. By grab, this is some riding, I reflected, as the horse started off in a brisk walk up the road, the three of us on his back.

"'Shucks and fodder!' said Brother Marlow, as he tried in vain to get his feet properly located. 'These stirrups are absolutely of no utility to me.'

"I looked down and could see that the minister's legs were dangling down a foot or more below the length of the stirrup leathers, they having been shortened to accommodate the more stubby legs of Bobby Broadway. As it was only a short distance, however, to our destination, we decided not to change the length of the stirrup leathers.

"As we came to the little town I could see the lights shining through the windows of the residences, indicating that the Fords Ferrians had not yet gone to bed; and, as we passed the tavern the sheriff, the town marshal, the deputy, Solomon Wiggleford, Highfield Jones and Bobby Broadway came rushing out of the door. On reaching the sidewalk they threw their hats into the air and yelled out:

"Three cheers for Zebulon and his bonny bride! Hurrah for Brother Marlow, Slick Selim and Horrace Greeley!" "We acknowledge their salutation but made no halt, old Slick Selim striking off in a high trot. Slick Selim was not noted for his easy trotting, but still, I reflected, it beats walking. So on we trotted. Brother Marlow sitting up Napoleonic-like in the saddle, holding the reins with one hand and occasionally pointing out to us certain interesting objects along the road with the other, his stove-pipe hat pointing skyward from his head and his long legs dangling down stirrupless toward the center of gravity.

"Isn't this just splendid, Zeb, spoke up Nell, 'to be out riding in the cool of the evening, inhaling the health-giving ozone, and isn't old Slick Selim's neck soft and nice, and doesn't the moon shine lovely through those beautiful autumn—'

"Nell, in her observations respecting the moonbeams and the autumn leaves, never reached a period, or even a semicolon; for just then a traction engine came lumbering up behind us, raising Cain and whistling for us to vacate the middle of the road!

"Hearing the racket behind him, old Slick Selim took a backward glance and one look was enough. He lit out up the road like a wild gazelle, the three of us clinging on to his back and leaving a blue streak behind us!

"Hold him, Brother Marlow, by grab, hold him!" I shouted, as the horse plunged on up the road as if determined to outdistance the rumbling monster behind him, jostling us up at a great rate and sending Nell bumping up against the back of Benny's best suit.

"Whoa, Slickzie boy! Whoa! cried Brother Marlow, at the same time giving the bridle a desperate pull, snapping the reins in two as if they had been twin strings and turning old Slick Selim loose upon the public highway!

"When the horse felt the breaking of the reins he glanced back, as if to see what was the matter, and, getting another glimpse of the traction engine, he lit out with increased fury, sending up great volumes of heel dust in front of the on-coming engine, the three of us holding frantically on to his back.

"On we dashed, the horse plumbing the middle of the road, and on lumbered the traction engine, raising all kinds of Cain behind us!

"Still on we plunged, lickety-split, Brother Marlow holding to the saddle horn with one hand and to his stove-pipe hat with the other, his legs clasped around the horse and being hampered into pulp by the flying stirrups I holding on to his Prince Albert; Nell, bouncing up and down like a rubber ball, but holding desperately on.

"Obedient to the law of gravitation we, after various gyrations in midair, landing on mother earth ker-thunk and in all kinds of shapes, just as the engine went rumbling by.

"As the machine passed by the engineer, with his hand on the throttle, looked down at Brother Marlow and me with a doggedicare, getoutomiy expression on his countenance and soon disappeared up the road.

"That scoundrel of an engineer," said Squire Brownlow, "has evidently been visiting the Fords Ferry bar and I have a notion, by gum, to put the sheriff and his party on his track for reckless traction engine driving on the public highway."

"I wish you would, pa," I said, as I scrambled to my feet, picked up my hat and pulled myself together as well as I could.

"Amen to that, Squire," said Brother Marlow, also getting on to his feet, straightening out his caved-in stove-pipe, also getting behind me and slyly examining various black and blue places just below his knees.

"Squire Brownlow, pointing with one hand toward the house, moved off in that direction, still carrying Nell in his arms, Brother Marlow following at his heels, Benny next in order and taking long strides, trying to step into the tracks of the minister, and I, hobbling along stiff-legged in the rear.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This interesting adventure, as told by Zebulon himself, will be concluded in this department of the Record-Press next week.

WAR DECLARED

CATARRH Germs Must Be Conquered or Health Will Be Destroyed.

If you have Catarrh you must vanquish an army of persistent, destructive microbes before you can be healthy.

You might as well choose your weapons, declare war and destroy this army of Catarrh germs right now.

Booth's HYOMEI, a pleasant germ destroying air breathed over the entire membrane will kill Catarrh germs.

Booth's HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) is guaranteed by Haynes & Taylor to end Catarrh or money back. It surely is fine for Coughs, Colds and Croup.

If you own a little HYOMEI hard rubber pocket inhaler get a separate bottle of HYOMEI for only one cents. If you haven't an inhaler a complete outfit for only $1.00. Breathe it—no stomach dosing. f27m6.

Jailer.

JOHN CHRISTIAN SPEES.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Jailer of Crittenden county, subject to the action of the Republican party in the coming August primary and if nominated I cheerfully promise to make an honest canvass and do all that I can to win in the November election and if elected to faithfully discharge all the duties imposed by law.
WILLIAM ENOCH BELT.

THE Democrats who, as a result of the congressional and senatorial elections, are entering official life, should learn early that the secret of success in public life is to hold no secrets from the public.

IN this issue of the Record Press we publish the card of Mr. Percy Brasher of the Dycusburg district, who aspires to the position of his party's nomination for assessor, in the August primary.

Mr. Brasher comes to us recommended to be a consistent Democrat and every way worthy and capable of filling the position.

He came of a family of Democrats who never falter and from a section of the county that has had but little, if any, representation on a county ticket for years. We speak of the old Gibralter district of Dycusburg, that always rolls up a Democratic majority, when others may fail.

We feel that Mr. Brasher will give a good account of himself in the primary and if nominated we are informed that the Dycusburg precinct will roll up an excellent majority for him.

Notice to Widows.

All widows of the Civil War soldiers, who are not drawing pensions, and all destitute widows of soldiers of the war with Spain, should send me their name and address. R. L. Moore.

CROOKED CREEK.

Some sickness at present.

The farmers are contemplating on calling a mass meeting to decide whether to chew or to smoke their tobacco, as they think there is no other method of getting rid of it.

Fine weather, roads are in good condition and general preparations are being made for the future crop.

Oh! That knocker. Push, don't knock. If you are a dead-head-step aside.

Mrs. Wyatt Hunt and Mr. and Mrs. Will Hughes were guests of uncle Jim Gass, Thursday.

Mrs. John Myers, of Post Oak, was the guest of friends here last week.

H. B. Gass, of this place, is working at Mexico, Ky., at present.

"It is in the neighborhood of Crooked Creek,
That the farmers go to town
but twice-a-week;

Now don't that give you the blues.

To see a fellow go to town when there's no use,
Just go for past-time or to meet and speak;

But they practice all of this,
In the neighborhood of Crooked Creek.—Another Rambler."

NEW SALEM

Some sickness in this neighborhood at present.

About 40 per cent of the farmers burned plant beds last week.

Uncle Sam Wolford spent Sunday the guest of his daughter at Levias.

Joe Parker and daughter, of Salem, were guests of Spillman Threlkeld. Mr. Threlkeld is in bad health.

While in Salem, Saturday, we met our old friend Henry Rapolee, who informed us that he had announced as candidate for County Attorney of Livingston Co. No better man in the country for the place. Here's to you Col., and we mean it.

P. S. Travis, of the Emmaus section, called on us last week. Phil is a candidate for Assessor. Phil is going it on the Bob Taylor plan; taking his fiddle with him and playing for the young folks and talking to the old ones. Phil is going to make somebody bustle.

Farmers made hay while the sun shined last week—phones were ringing on every farm.

We thought we were the first ones to garden for 1913, but our friend John Elder, of Salem, informs us that he beat us one day.

Our friend James LaRue, Sr., happened to quite a serious accident last week while felling some timber. A limb struck him on the head, inflicting a gash. A physician was summoned and sewed up the wound. Mr. LaRue is doing as well as could be expected and hopes to be out again soon.

School Entertainment Successful.

The Musical and Reading given by the Marion High School Orchestra, assisted by Miss Lena Holtzclaw, Friday evening, Feb. 21st, at the auditorium was a most delightful and refreshing affair. Only one thing, marred the pleasure of the evening and brought a blush of shame to the cheeks of those present and that was the empty seats which in a measure showed a lack of appreciation on the part of our people, of talents of our young folks. The entire program as published was carried out without a flaw, each one acquitted herself or himself in an admirable manner. The entertainment consisted of ten numbers as follows:

I. "Land of the Maple" Orchestra

II. "Song Without Words" Juliet Pope, Medley Cannan, Neville Moore, Owen Moore

III. Violin Duet: "Ave Verum" Lucile Pope, George Orme

IV. Waltz: "American Beauty" Orchestra

V. Reading: "A Few Bars in the Key of G" Miss Lena Holtzclaw

VI. Cornet Solo: "Song of the Roses" Juliet Pope

VII. "Imperial" Orchestra

VIII. Baritone Solo: "The Smuggler" Owen Moore

IX. Duet: "I would that My Love" Medley Cannan, Jas. U. Snyder

X. "Miss Liberty" Orchestra

And as each number was rendered the performer was encored enthusiastically and in every case they pleased their audience by reappearing. Those who missed this, should never do so again. It was worth hearing. We have more talent here than you realize, and the young people deserve encouragement.

SHINBONE DRAFTER TO SPINAL COLUMN

Remarkable Operation Performed to Prevent Patient From Becoming Hunchback.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 25.—One of the most delicate operations ever undertaken in Eastern Massachusetts was today successfully performed by Dr. Harvey F. Newhall, of Lynn, who grafted a piece of shinbone into the spinal column of a man suffering with tuberculosis of the spine, which threatened to make him a hunchback. The operation was performed at the Salem Hospital:

The operation was first performed by Dr. Albee, of New York, and bears his name.

According to Dr. Newhall the spinous process of the vertebrae above the elbow, the site of the disease is split longitudinally and the piece of bone taken from the skin is grafted into the groove made by the splitting of processes. The grafting is then covered over by the "kangaroo tension." The piece of bone lies and makes a solid bone split down the back over the point of the disease, thus preventing the knuckle from growing out and forming a "hump." This operation replaces the old method of keeping the patient in a plaster jacket for two years.

In this case the piece of shin bone used was taken from the patient. It is said this will not in any way cripple him.

ARMAGEDDON OF THE SCRIPTURES

Startling Presentation of Coming Events.

PASTOR RUSSELL'S VIEWS.

Churches of All Denominations and the Civil Powers of Earth Are About to Unite In Common Cause—Powerful Influence Preparing For the Battle of Armageddon—A Reign of Anarchy Will Be the Result of the Warfare Until The Messiah Takes Control.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 3.—The Brooklyn Academy of Music was crowded to the limit today to hear Pastor Russell's discourse on the "Battle of Armageddon." His text was: "He gathered them together unto a place called in the Hebrew tongue Armageddon." His text was: "He gathered them together unto a place called in the Hebrew tongue Armageddon." His text was: "He gathered them together unto a place called in the Hebrew tongue Armageddon." His text was: "He gathered them together unto a place called in the Hebrew tongue Armageddon."

(Revelation xvi, 16.) The speaker said: "Armageddon in the Hebrew signifies the 'hill of Megiddo,' or Mount of Destruction. It was famous as a battle field in Old Testament times.

The Lord has seen fit to associate the name Armageddon, with the great controversy between Truth and Error, right and wrong, God and Mammon with which this age will close, perchance the New Age of Messiah's glory be ushered in. He has purposely used mighty symbolic figures of speech in the last book of the Bible, evidently with a view to hiding certain important truths until the due time for their reavement. But even in the due time, the Bible assures us, "None of the wicked shall understand" (Daniel xii, 10)—none who are out of heart harmony with God—but only the wise of His people—the "wise virgin" class of the Master's parable.

I have long avoided presentation of my understanding of our text and its context. I take it up now by request and because I believe it is due time to be understood. I disclaim any special inspiration. In some particulars my views agree with those of other Bible students, and in other respects they disagree. Each hearer must use his own judgment, do his own Bible study, and reach his own conclusions.

Kindly remember that I am not responsible for the figures of speech used by the Lord. My interpretations do indeed constitute a terrible arrangement of institutions which we have all revered and which embrace good people, of good words and good works. God's saintly people in these various institutions, being comparatively few, are ignored when systems as a whole are dealt with in prophecy.

The Dragon, Beast, False Prophet. Our context tells us that three impure spirits (teachings) will go forth from the mouths of the Dragon, the Beast and the False Prophet, and these three will be in accord, and symbolically the doctrines are represented by "frogs." These three doctrines are to have a mighty influence throughout the civilized earth. They are to gather the kings and their armies to the great Battle of Armageddon.

The ecclesiastical kings and princes, and their retinues of clergy and faithful adherents, will be gathered in solid phalanx—Protestant and Catholic. The kings and captains of industry, and as many as can be influenced by them, will be gathered to the same side. The political kings and princes, with all their henchmen and retainers, will follow in line on the same side. The financial kings and merchant princes, and all whom they can influence by the most gigantic power ever yet exercised in the world, will join the same side, according to this prophecy.

These "doctrines of demons," represented by the "frogs," will lead many noble people in this great army to assume an attitude quite contrary to their preference. For a time the wheels of liberty and progress will be turned backward and medieval restraints will be considered necessary for self-preservation—for the maintenance of the present order of things.

In giving this interpretation, it is necessary for us to indicate what is symbolized by the Dragon, the Beast, and the False Prophet. Bible students of nearly all denominations agree with us that the "Dragon" of Revelation represents the purely Civil Power. Protestant interpreters generally agree that the "Beast like a leopard" (Revelation xiii, 2) represents the Papacy. But fewer still, we fear, will be ready to support our view that Protestantism is the "Image of the Beast" (Revelation xiii, 15) in our context given another name, "the False Prophet." We urge no one to accept our interpretation nor shall we think hard of any who refuse it. We will neither slander nor otherwise injure them now, nor threaten them with eternal torture. They have the same right to their views that I have, and the same right to make them known to others. And I, for one, will be very glad to consider anything which opponents may set forth in their interpretations of our text.

"Unclean Spirits Like Frogs."

The symbolicisms of Scripture, rightly understood, are always forcible. When the Holy Spirit used a "frog" to symbolically represent certain THINGS PEOPLE SHOULD KNOW!

Was Stanley Dodging?

The most important measure before the House of Representatives at the present session of Congress has been the Webb bill which is similar to the Kenyon bill in the Senate. The purpose of the bill is to prohibit the shipment of liquor into dry states or depends in his race for the senatorial nomination, nor was he willing to stand up and vote against a measure demanded by all the temperance people of this state and of the country.

The people of Kentucky well remember that in the platform convention in August of 1911, when the fight was on over putting the county unit plank in the platform, Mr. Stanley was one of the leaders in the convention fighting for the liquor interests and against the adoption of the plank. So it is easy to understand the eagerness and alacrity with which he bearded the west bound train from Washington to Kentucky last Friday evening to make a school address, or to "watch the effect of Gov. McCreary's announcement in the senatorial race."

Mr. Stanley may think that he can escape his position and record in these matters by shouting until he is hot in the collar about the steel trust and the railroads, but the people of Kentucky are too wise and intelligent to allow him to succeed in such a diversion, and they are really more interested in knowing Mr. Stanley's attitude towards that Trust that has put its blight upon tens of thousands of Kentucky homes, and one that seeks to defeat this and similar measures.

The first important vote on the Webb bill came up on Saturday, Feb. 8th, on a motion for a special rule to consider it. The rule was adopted and the bill was then passed by a large majority. Many members of the House dreaded to vote on it. With the powerful liquor interests on one side and the temperance people on the other, they feared giving offense to either side. Some of them, therefore, lit out for more congenial localities.

Where was the redoubtable Stanley of Kentucky when the bill came to a vote last Saturday? Was this voiceful warrior upon the trusts on hand to lend his aid and cast his vote in helping a measure that is so bitterly fought by the most insolent and one of the most powerful trusts in the country? The echo answers, the roll-call answers and the record answers "not there!" A Washington telegram published in the morning papers of Saturday said that the distinguished congressman had left for Louisa, Ky., where he would deliver an address to some school. The report also stated that he said, "that his visit to Kentucky had no political significance, but that he was using the address as a hoax to get back to Kentucky, because he had heard Gov. McCreary was making his senatorial announcement within the next day or so, and he wanted to be on the ground when it was made to see how it was received."

It is easy to understand by Mr. Stanley's past record that he probably had a much stronger reason for his desire to get away from Washington in such haste before the Webb bill came to a vote. He evidently did not wish to offend the liquor interests, upon whose support he chiefly

Dash For Liberty Caused

Madero's Death.

Mexico City, Feb. 25—Feliz Diaz today denied responsibility for the execution of Gustavo Madero and Adolfo Bassi, superintendent of the national palace. The official report on the death of Gustavo Madero says: "He was being removed from one part of the arsenal to another when he made a dash for liberty. The officer in charge fired at him and killed him."

Adolfo Bassi was killed inside the rebel lines.

The death of Gustavo Madero is still a chief topic of conversation among the populace. Many people today sought souvenirs of the dead pelitican, and one person paid $25 for a fragment of his eye glass.

GORED BY A BULL

Shelby County Farmer Has a Narrow Escape From Death.

Shelbyville, Ky., Feb. 25.—Sheriff B. C. Perkins narrowly escaped being gored to death by an angry bull. Mr. Perkins went out in the morning to his barn lot where he keeps his animal and other cattle. At the sight of him the bull made a mad rush for him and knocked him to the ground. When he regained his feet. Mr. Perkins ran toward the barn, but just as he reached the side of it he was struck again and a second time sank to the ground with his back against the barn. With great presence of mind he then grabbed the bull by a horn and the nostrils and with a powerful effort succeeded in turning the head far enough aside to be able to rise to his feet and rush into the barn and thus effect his escape.

Jesse James' Hotel.

A man entered a Washington Hotel and with the air of one with whom money was of little moment, asked the clerk what he would charge him for a room and bath, during the inauguration ceremonies. The clerk told him.

"Yes, yes," answered the prospective guest.

"Now, then I would like to see Mr. James," he said to the clerk.

"Which Mr. James?"

"Why Mr. James, the proprietor of this hotel."

The clerk insisted that Mr. James was not the proprietor of the hotel.

"You can't kid me," said the would-be patron, peevishly, "I want to see Mr. James, the proprietor of this hotel and see him quick. I mean Mr. Jesse James the most notorious robber of modern times."

PAPER BAG COOKING

Great System Perfected by M Soyer, Famous London Chef.

COOKING CHILDREN'S GOODIES

By Martha McCulloch Williams. Lives there a child with appetite so dead that his mouth never waters when the word "Goody" is mentioned? Goodies of all sorts are the especial gastronomic delight of all children, and let me add that goodies of all sorts can be made more digestible and more delicious by being cooked in paper bags.

It was an acute social observer who wrote: "Housekeepers instinctively add grease and sweetening when cooking for company." The same rule ought to prevail in cooking for children. Food cannot be too rich for young, thriving creatures, provided it is properly proportioned. Perfect pound cake is a meal in itself, gingerbread as perfect, but little less satisfying, while as for tea cakes of the right sort, crisp, sugary, melting, an active healthy child may eat all it chooses of them, and be better for the eating.

Make all these not merely good, but attractive to the eye. Make also sponge cake, raisin cake and many manners of fancy tartlets. Make them individual—in that will lie the supreme charm.

Begin by cutting a big bag lengthwise into strips two inches wide. Grease each strip half an inch from one edge, and cut blunt notches into the crease, three-quarters of an inch apart. From another bag, split open, cut rounds or ovals, four to five inches across. Fasten the notched strips to these with small clips, letting the notches stand outside and clipping the ends where they come together. Thus you have a flat-bottomed individual mould, to be filled, after buttering, with anything you like. Filled, the moulds are slid inside a large lightly greased bag, the bag set on a trivet, and after sealing, baked in the oven.

Let the cakes cool in the moulds, then tear away the paper and frost them or decorate them with candy or nuts.

Here is Mammy's Pound Cake—and better never went in anybody's mouth. Take ten eggs, a pound of flour, sifted with two teaspoonsfuls of cream tartar and one of soda, a pound of sifted sugar, three-quarters of a pound of best butter, a wineglass of brandy or sherry, a tablespoonful lemon extract. Cream the butter very light with half the sugar, add the other half to the yolks of the eggs after beating them foamy light, and then beat again. Put in the butter and sugar, mix well, add the liquor next, then half the flour, putting in a cupful at a time. Fold in next part of the egg whites, which should be beaten so stiff that they will stick to the inverted dish. Add the rest of the flour, then the last of the egg-white. Stir in the lemon extract last of all. Pour into thickly buttered bags or very thin tin moulds thickly buttered. Seal the loaded bags and set on a trivet in the oven. Put moulds inside greased bags, seal and put on the grid shelf.

Have the oven hot enough to turn white paper yellow in five minutes.

If the paper scorches it is too hot—cool it by setting a very shallow pan of cold water upon the floor just before putting in the cake.

Take out the pan after a few minutes, of course, first turning down the gas flame, or pushing in the dampers to reduce heat. Cool at moderate heat until done through. It will take an hour to an hour and a half, according to the thickness of the cakes.

Midway the baking they should be shifted—those from the grid shelf set low on the broiler, those from the broiler put high, so that they will cook evenly. Make holes in the bag tops and test the cakes before taking them up by thrusting in a clean straw or thin knife blade. If the thing thrust in comes out with no stickiness clinging to it, the cake is done.

Bag cooking prevents crusting over, and thereby facilitates rising. It also saves from burning and avoids the risk of jarring by too much opening of the oven door. Baking powder can be used in place of soda and cream of tartar, but to my thinking the old way is the best.

Raisin cake is made almost the same as pound cake, but takes a little longer and slower baking.

Every household almost has its own favorite gingerbread and tea-cake. Make them in your own way, but remember to make them festive. You can do this easily by cutting them out in all manner of fancy shapes besides those already suggested, from frosting them in many colors—white, pink, green, yellow and brown, and sprinkling them before the frosting hardens, with tiny colored candies, or chopped nuts, or candied peel, or citron very finely shredded. Make stars, crescents, crosses, triangles, what not—the more, certainly the merrier when you come to set them on your dish.

Pound cake and raisin cake baked in paper bags can be cut in cubes, rounds, fingers, or any shape desired, frosted all over, and be more than ornamental. A centerpiece for a child's party can be built in the shape of a log cabin, using alternately long strips frosted white and other strips of chocolate brown. Or it may be white and pink, or all white, with a roof of frosting snow and candy icicles hanging along the eaves. Vegetable coloring, which is cheap and perfectly wholesome, can be bought from any first class grocer.

APPLEGATE

There has been an epidemic of mumps in this neighborhood, all who were fortunate enough to get them say they had a swell time.

Miss. Ina Burton is visiting relatives in Marion this week. Clyde Nation moved to Blackford one day last week.

Miss. Myrtle Brightman who has been visiting relatives at Madisonville returned home last week.

Smith Newcom and William Orme went to Louisville last week on business connected with the sale of the Sullivan tobacco pool.

We think we can report an improvement in our next letter, but fearing they might be chased like Zebulon and Nell, we will call no names this week.

The following advertisement was taken from an old paper (name of paper torn off,) date Sept. 4th, 1835:

TOBACCO.

We use this method to inform our customers and friends, of this and adjoining counties, that we design freighting tobacco the approaching season to New Orleans, and from the liberal encouragement heretofore received, we still hope to share a portion of their patronage.

We will receive and ship tobacco from the warehouse at or near Clarksville, the Cumberland and Red rivers, on as good terms as any other responsible freighters from these places during the season, liberal advances will be made to persons freighting by us, by allowing us at the rate of 6 per cent interest. T. A. Anderson and Mr. Howard, our principal clerk, will attend in New Orleans to the inspecting and selling of the tobacco consigned to our care, where the utmost attention will be paid in seeing the planters justly dealt with. One of the firm has gone on to the east for the purpose of laying in a general assortment of fall and winter goods, which we expect to receive in a few weeks, and will sell as cheap as any merchant in the western country, for cash or on time to punctual customers.
